PRELUDE Mrs. Lois B. Ayers

HYMN—"Rock of Ages"

CALL TO SERVICE Dr. Edgar A. Potts, Pastor
Greene Memorial United Methodist Church

"Man asked Life of Thee and Thou gavest it Him even length of days forever and ever. His struggles in mortal combat are indicative of Man's will to live. Let us recall that His influence can long outlive the life that sheds it, that much of this world's work is being done by the departed, that among all the forces of the earth there is none more potent than that of those we call dead."

PRAYER In Unison

"Almighty God with Whom do live the Spirits of those who depart hence in the Lord, We give Thee hearty thanks for the Good Examples of all those Thy Servants who, having finished their course in faith do now rest from their labours. We beseech Thee to grant them continual growth in Thy love and service, and to give us grace so to follow their good examples, that with them we may be partakers of Thy Heavenly Kingdom, through Jesus Christ Our Lord." Amen.

RESPONSIVE READING—Psalm 27: 4-7 led by Mrs. Herrington

CHAIRMAN—One thing have I desired of the Lord, which I will require;

Response—Even that I may dwell in the House of the Lord, all the days of my life, to behold the fair beauty of the Lord, and to visit His Temple.

CHAIRMAN—For in the time of trouble He shall hide me in Tabernacle.

Response—Yea, in the secret place of His dwelling shall He hide me, and set me up upon a rock of stone.

CHAIRMAN—And now shall He lift up mine head.

Response—Above mine enemies round about me.

CHAIRMAN—Therefore will I offer in His dwelling an obligation, great gladness.

Response—I will sing and speak promises unto the Lord.

PRAYER Dr. Edgar A. P.

"Almighty God, we remember this day before Thee Thy faithful servants and we pray that having opened to them the gates of larger life, Thou wilt receive them more and more into joyful service, that they may win, with Thee and thy servants everywhere the eternal victory through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

A CALL TO ARMS
As the inevitability of armed conflict became known throughout the North and South, a call to arms was sounded to the nation's young men. This young Drummer Boy was originally painted by Julian Scott, 19th Century American artist.

CONFEDERATE CAMP
Conrad Wise Chapman emerged as the major Southern artist of the Civil War period. This view is based on his painting of Southern troops at their camp near Corinth, Mississippi in May, 1862, after the bloody Battle of Shiloh. The original is in the collection of the Valentine Museum, Richmond.

J. E. B. STUART
The dashing Confederate cavalryman finds no better realization than in the person of J. E. B. Stuart. With daring raids, Stuart's cavalry confounded the enemy and provided valuable military intelligence to Lee. Charles Hoffbauer portrayed Stuart in a mural of War scenes commissioned for Battle Abbey, Richmond.

Talk on poet Henry Timrod given at UDC chapter meet

A talk on Henry Timrod, one of the South's least-known poets, was given for members of the Old Dominion Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at a recent meeting with Mrs. W. T. Bryant of Amherst County.

Mary Spotswood Payne, guest speaker, was introduced by Katherine Gilbert, chapter historian.

Miss Payne said that Henry Timrod was born Dec. 8, 1828 in Charleston, S.C., son of William Henry Timrod, a minor Charleston poet. William's father had come from Germany in the mid-18th century and had changed his name from Heinrich Dimroth to Henry Timrod and he fought in the Revolutionary War.

The speaker said Henry Timrod entered the University of Georgia in January, 1843, but ill health caused him to withdraw a year and a-half later. Returning to Charleston he read law for a while, but soon found himself unhappy in his choice of a profession. He renewed his interest in the classics and hoped to become a college teacher, but no such jobs were available. He then became a tutor for children of planters in North and South Carolina and he also taught in rural schools.

In January, 1864 Timrod moved to Columbia, S.C., and was part owner and associate editor of the Columbia Daily South Carolinian. In February of that year he married Katie Goodwin, an English girl, whose brother George had married Timrod's sister, Emily. It is largely from letters Henry wrote to his sister, that many unknown incidents of his life have been brought to light.

Katie and Henry were the parents of a son, Little Willie, born on Christmas day, but who died before his first birthday.

Timrod's career embraced teaching, newspaper writing, the writing of poetry and a stint in the Confederate States Army, which was short lived because he suffered from tuberculosis.

"The last years of Timrod's life are among the saddest in our literary history," Miss Payne said. "When Sherman's army approached Columbia, Timrod went into hiding knowing that his writings had made him obnoxious to the Federals. The burning of Columbia almost ruined him financially. Ill from tuberculosis he could not find employment and he tried to sell his poems to editors of New York magazines, but they would have none of them because of their hostility to Southern writers. Henry Timrod died Oct. 7, 1867 and was buried next to his only son in the churchyard in Columbia, S.C."

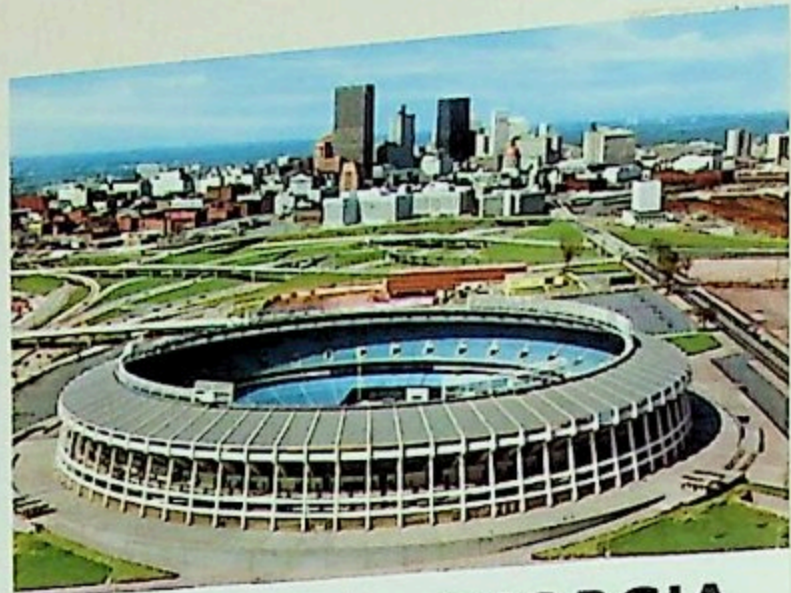

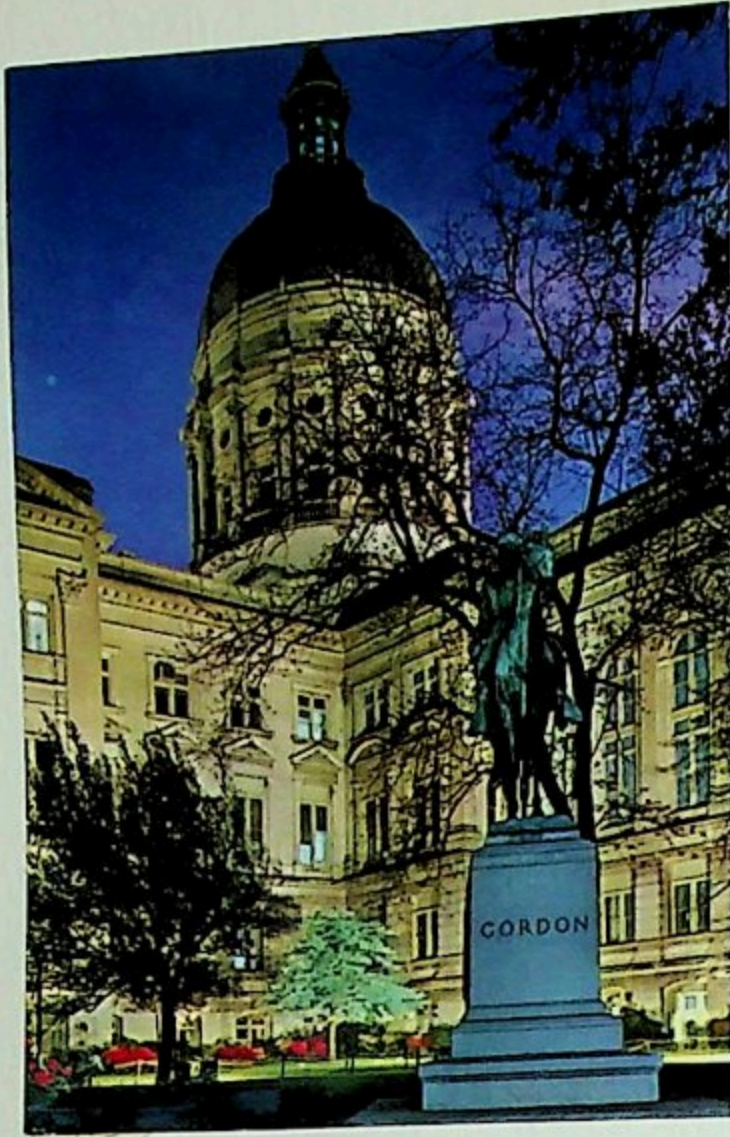

The speaker said although he is known for his essays his greatest recognition came through his poetry. In 1899, 30 years after his death, the Timrod Memorial Association placed a stone at his grave and a bust by Valentine was placed in Charleston Square and an edition of his poems was brought out.

Miss Payne read four of his poems including "Ode," which she said was sung at Memorial Day Exercises for decorating the graves of the Confederate dead at Magnolia Cemetery in Charleston, S.C., June 16, 1866.

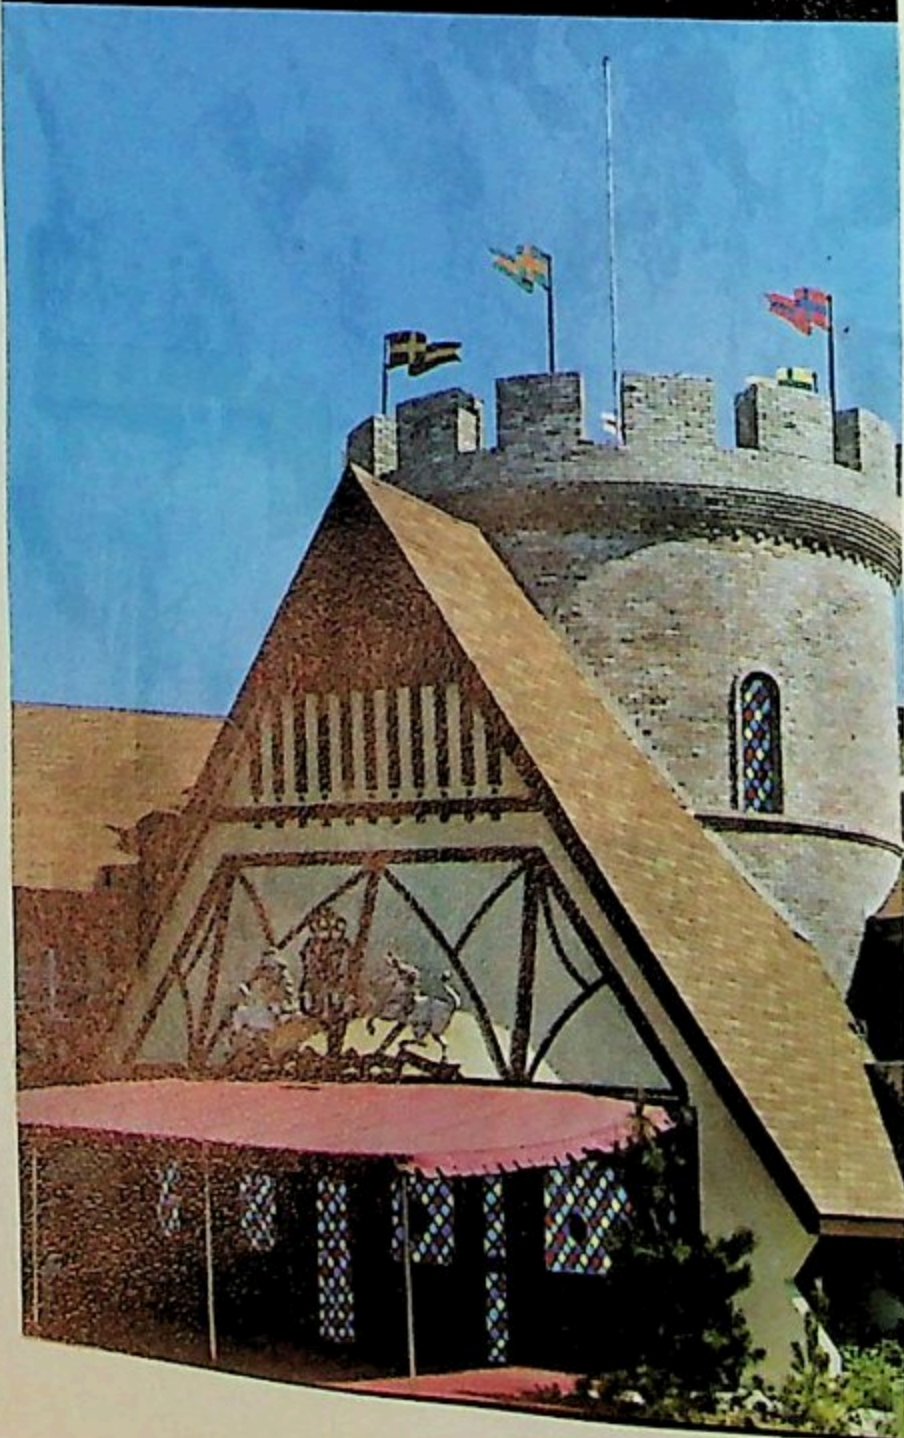

Mrs. C. V. Glenn and members of the Stonewall Jackson Circle of which Mrs. A. S. Nowlin is chairman, were hostesses for the meeting.

UDC meeting

The Old Dominion Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy will hold its Christmas meeting Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. W. Cabell Garbee of 1138 Rhode Island Ave.

Gifts for the Veterans' Hospital in Salem will be brought at that time.

Miss Frances Callaham, Member Guest Speaker at December Meeting

"For unto you is born this day... a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord."

LUKE 2:11

Early Christmas customs described to UDC chapter

Early Christmas customs in the South with emphasis upon the holiday observances in Williamsburg, which have been revived by Colonial Williamsburg, were told to members of the Old Dominion Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy at a meeting Wednesday with Mrs. W. Cabell Garbee of 1138 Rhode Island Ave.

Frances Callaham was guest speaker. Her topic was "Christmas in The South." She was introduced by Katharine Gilbert, chapter historian.

Miss Gilbert also announced that the annual Lee-Jackson-Maury luncheon, honoring the three noted Virginians whose birthdays occur in January, will be held Jan. 22 in the Stewart Arms.

Ruth Burgess, president, conducted the business meeting to which members brought many gifts to be taken to the Veteran's Hospital in Salem by chapter members. The donation of gifts to patients at the facility is an annual custom of the organization.

The Dixie Circle of which Mrs. Raymond C. Callaham is chairman, was hostess for the social hour which preceded the meeting.

Miss Callaham said that at each Christmas season the Williamsburg community Christmas tree "shines during the day and glitters at night."

She told of Charles Frederic Ernest Minnegerode, a professor at the College of William and Mary who introduced the Christmas tree in Virginia when he placed one in the home of Judge Nathaniel Beverly Tucker, professor of law at the college.

Minnegerode, she said, came to the United States from his native Germany seeking political freedom. For five years, she said, he had been in prison or held under state control and had been brutally treated. Always he had with him the Bible, the only book he was permitted to read while incarcerated. He was a teacher of the classics in the recently established College of William and Mary. It was in 1842 that he placed the tree in the Tucker home, thus bringing the German custom to Virginia.

"Today in Williamsburg," Miss Callaham said, "the Christmas customs of 200 years ago have been revived for visitors and townspeople."

"A number of historic structures open their doors for the Williamsburg Christmas. One is the Wythe House, a building of striking design, dating back to 1755. Here lived George Wythe, first professor of law in America, who taught Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, John Marshall and Henry Clay. Dr. Wythe's Christmas party is an annual observance in the colonial city.

Homes and government structures alike glow with candles as they did in an earlier era. There are religious services in Bruton Parish Church, built in 1710-15," Miss Callaham commented.
